

Coming Out In Lowell:

An event celebrating the history of the lesbian and gay community in Lowell from its early days to marriage equality

Saturday, June 7

11:00 - 1:00 @

Pollard Memorial Library

401 Merrimack Street

Lowell, MA

"We need to know that we are not an accident, that our culture has grown and changed with the currents of time, that we, like others, have a social history."

Joan Nestle A Restricted Country

Over the past year, the Lowell Gay History Project, with support from a Lowell Cultural Council grant, has been collecting archival material and oral histories documenting the history of Lowell's gay and lesbian community. This history includes the brave men and women of the 1950s who laid the ground work for the civil rights struggles in the 70s and 80s, all of which has led to the great gains made in more recent decades.

Join us on Saturday, June 7, for a look at a piece of a larger history that is still to be written.
